

I am a 16-year flight attendant. I write to you because on my last flight I had to ask a passenger to turn off a pornographic video. We are talking about judgment here which I would consider central to your decision-making process. Given the general public you are always going to have judgment issues. You will create immeasurable problems not just for flight crews, but for the traveling public if you permit cell phone usage during flight. It is not only a safety issue, it is a public privacy issue which, obviously, is of more concern to the traveling public. I really can't imagine this to be an issue for lengthy debate and consideration. It is in no one's best interests!
